The Human Observation Society

All Thats Left

Every human society that would come to flourish did so due to their ability to effectively trade with other cultures and societies. This system of trade eventually developed it self into the creation of currency which states that this one thing (money) gives you the ability to trade for any good or service.

All thats Left is a participatory event that will take place in Miami during the month of August 2008. The event consists of establishing trade routes around the city and creating a free / alternative market.

This event is open for the public to participate ether by following the route with the Human Observation Society or setting up at the indicated trade stops. The only restriction placed on all those participating is that they not trade for cash (gold/silver/ect. however would be alright).

The two trade routes created for this event are:

Little Havana Trading Route
East Side Trading Route

Every event begins at 12:00 PM and will go on till mid to late afternoon

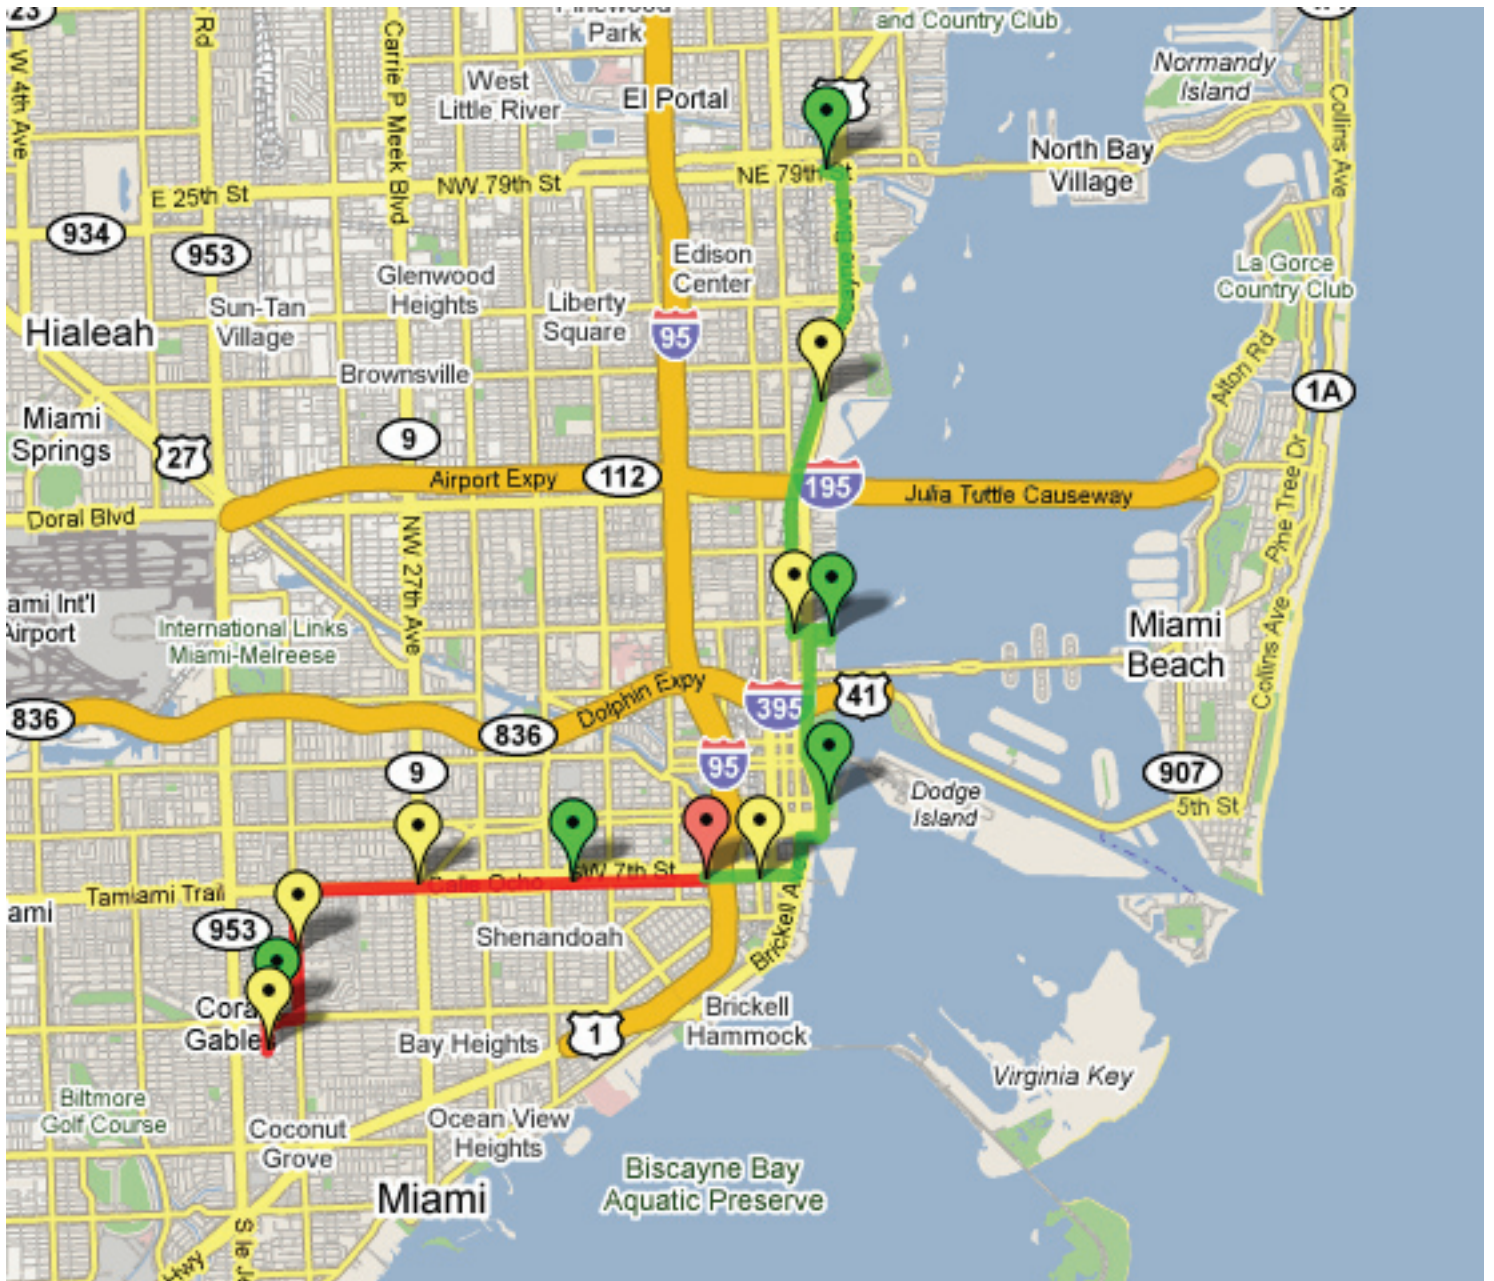

August 2, 2008 - Little Havana Trading Route
August 9, 2008 - East Side Trading Route
August 16, 2008 - Little Havana Trading Route
August 23, 2008 - East Side Trading Rote
August 30, 2008 - Little Havana Trading Route

Map available on the next page.
